ANDREW LARSEN

ILLUSTRATED BY DAWN LO

ARE YOU READY FOR YOUR HAIRCUT, SALLY?

LOVABLE PUP SALLY IS LOOKING A LITTLE SHAGGY, so her owners are taking her to the groomer. It smells like a garden and Sally sees brushes and bows galore. Then it's time for a bath. Once she's squeaky clean and blow-dried, Sally gets brushed, snipped and clipped. When her owners arrive—surprise!—everyone has fancy new hairdos!

Andrew Larsen is the award-winning author of over 15 books, including In the Tree House, The Bagel King, A Squiggly Story and Sally's Big Day. His books have been nominated for numerous awards, including the Blue Spruce Award and the TD Canadian Children's Literature Award. Andrew lives in Toronto.

Born in Hong Kong, Dawn Lo is an illustrator currently based in Vancouver, British Columbia, on the unceded lands of the Squamish, Musqueam and Tsleil-Waututh First Nations. Her work has appeared in the picture books Snow Song and The Rainbow Garden Is My Friend, as well as in stationery, greeting cards, public art installations, murals and more. Dawn aims to create works that are high-spirited and whimsical while retaining a certain degree of simplicity and humor.

KEY SELLING POINTS

- In this follow-up to Sally's Big Day, Sally the dog is off to the groomer for a trim. Like in her first adventure, Sally is experiencing everything for the first time and learning new things.
- This sweet story gives kids insight into pet care and what happens when a dog goes to the groomer; it could also help readers who are nervous about going to the hairdresser, introducing them to the various sights, sounds and smells of the salon so the experience doesn't seem so daunting.
- Dawn Lo's bold, bright and funny illustrations are a perfect match for Sally's goofy, adorable personality.
- Andrew Larson has a puppy named Sally who inspired this book.

PRAISE FOR SALLY'S BIG DAY

"Clearly understands the drama of sitting and listening when you are a young child. A puppy in obedience training is the perfect corollary to the experience of 'failing' and, ultimately, trying again until you succeed...Quirky and saturated illustrations are a perfect accompaniment for our wiggly and disobedient heroine."

“Are you ready to go out, Sally?”

Sally walks past
the park.
Where is she going?

Sally walks past the coffee shop.
She climbs to the top of the steps.
"Hi, Sally. I'm Omar. Come in."

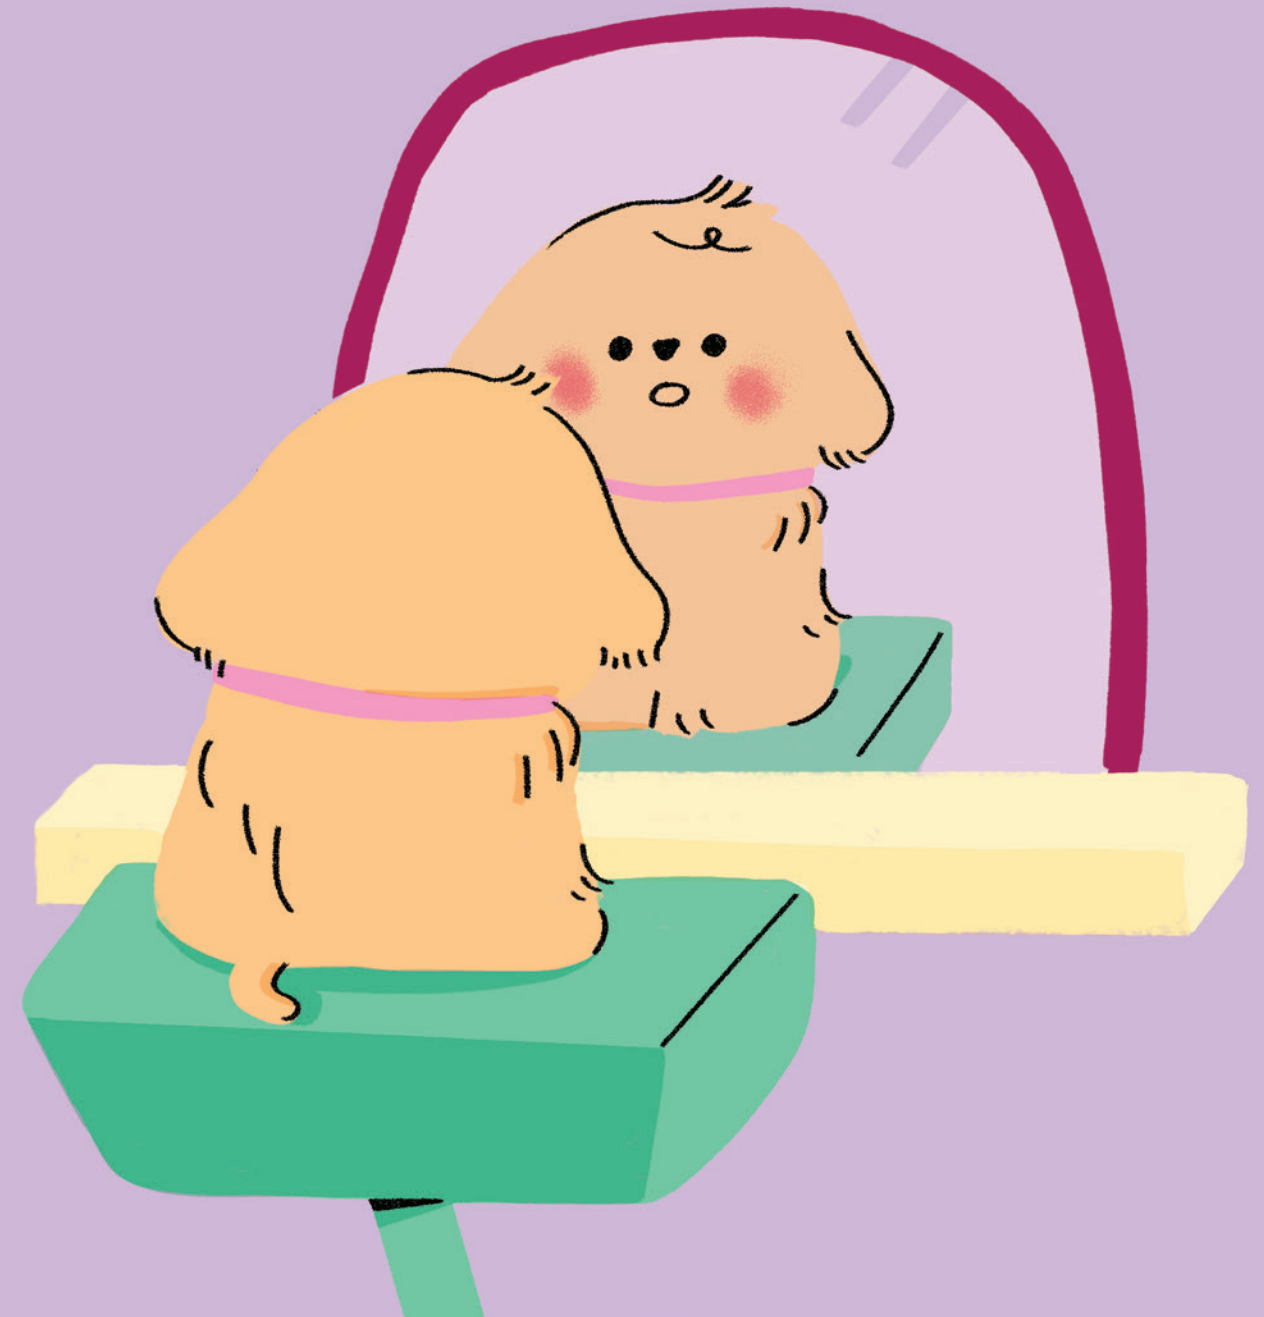

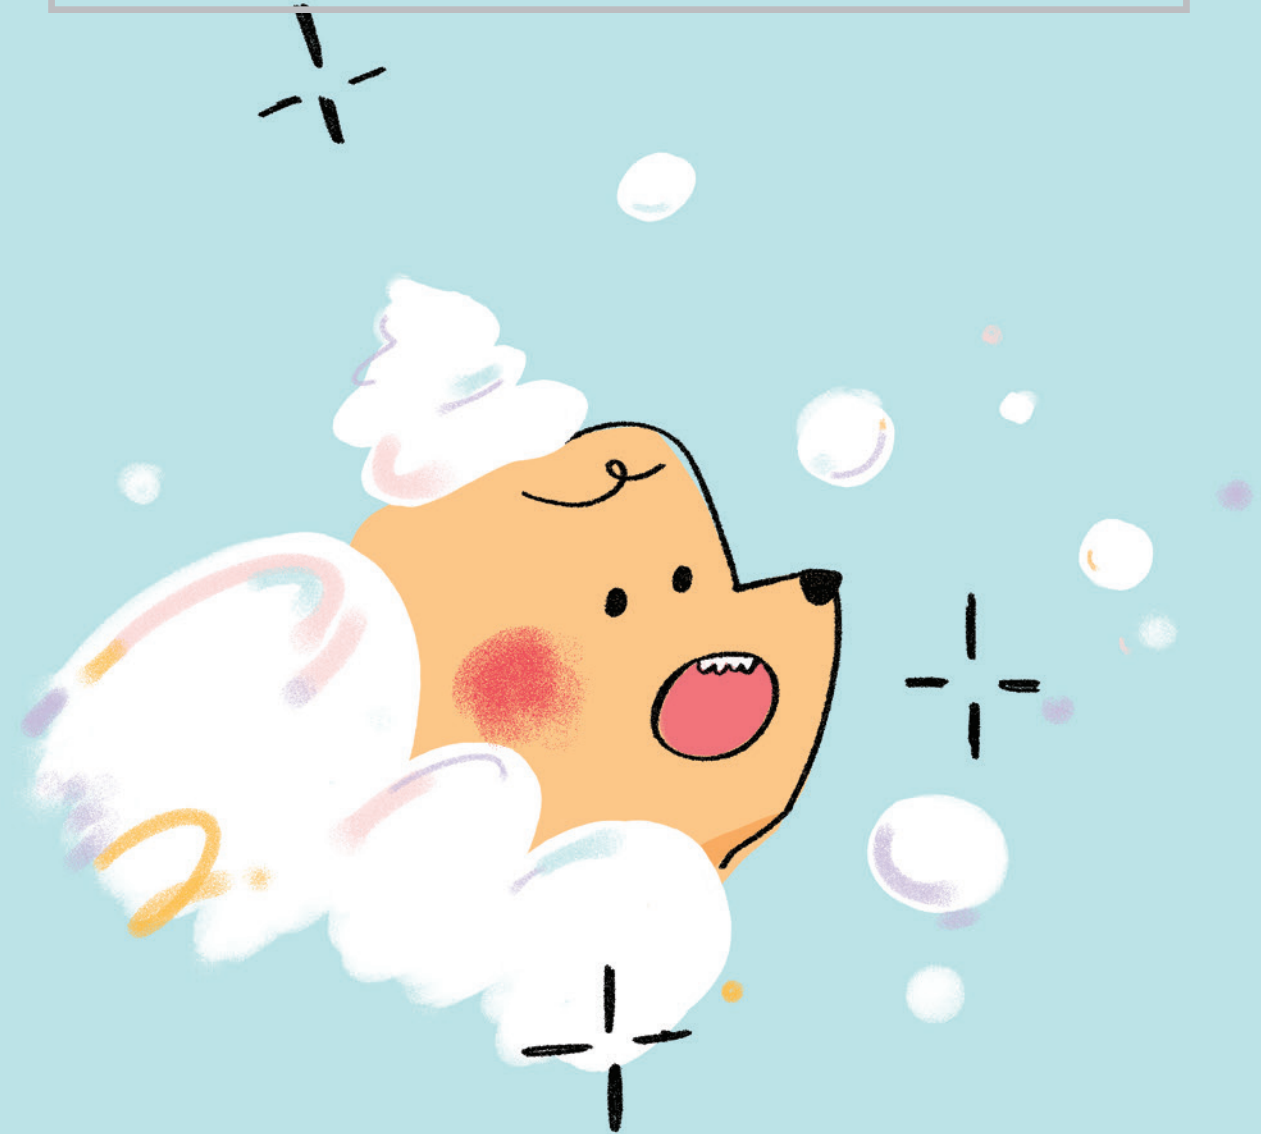

Omar's place smells
like a garden.
Sally sees combs and
brushes and bows.

She sees a dog in the big mirror.

The bubbles in the bathtub tickle Sally's nose.
They pop when she bites them.

Pop! Pop! Pop!

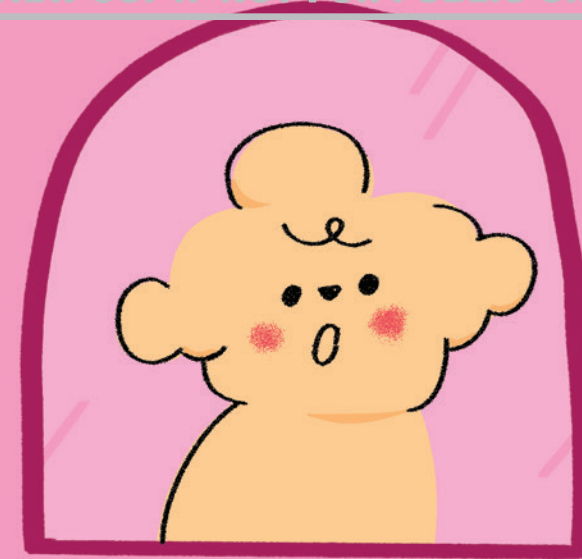

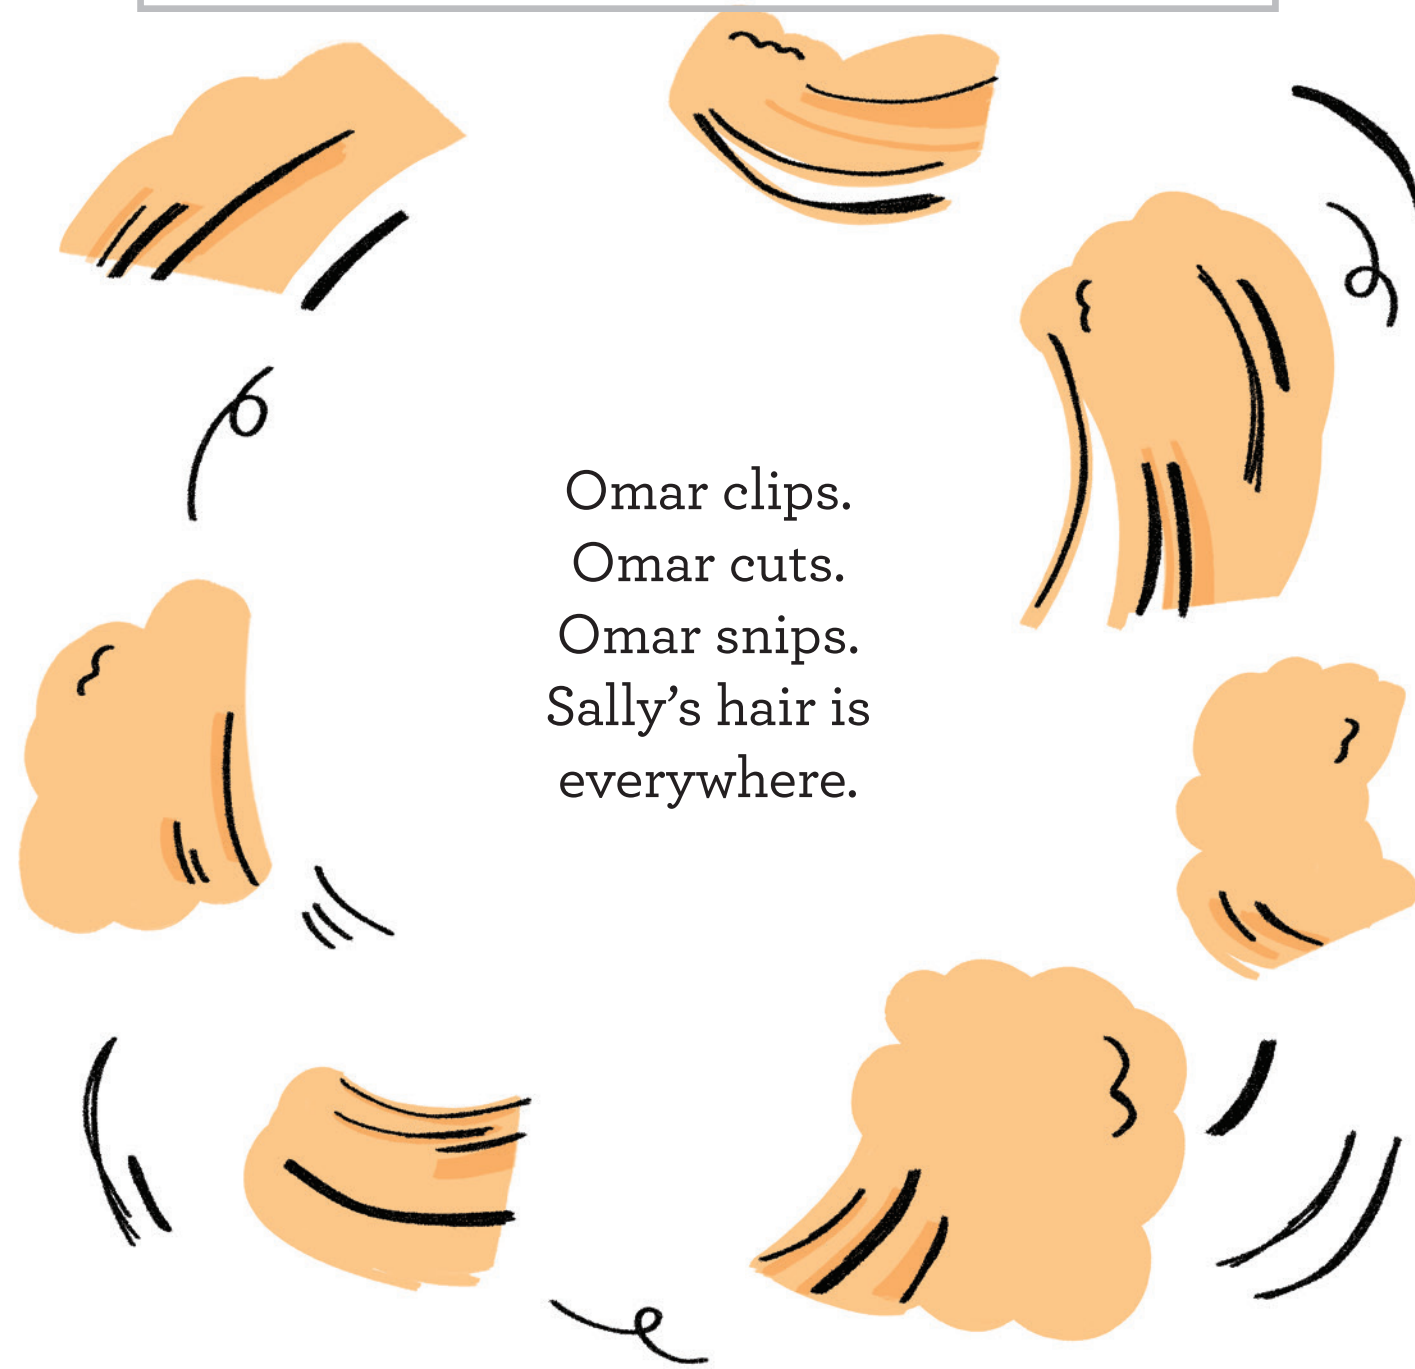

The hair dryer is louder than a vacuum and wilder than the wind.

It's as warm as the sun.

“What will we do
with all this hair?”
says Omar.

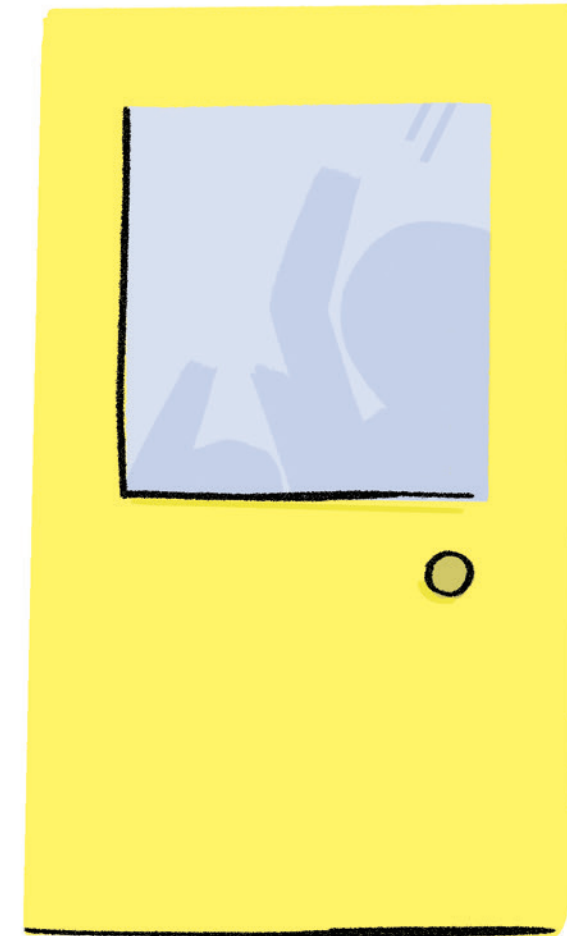

Omar clips.
Omar cuts.
Omar snips.
Sally's hair is everywhere.

“We’re all done,” says Omar. “You’re a good dog! Here’s a yummy treat.”

Knock! Knock!

Look!
Wow!
“Surprise!”

When Sally gets home, she curls up and closes her eyes. What does she dream of?

Sally dreams of bubbles.

For Sally. You're a good dog. I wish you could read... —A.L.
 To Mama and Ema, my very first hairstylists. —D.L.
